IMAP Netherlands advises freight forwarding specialist OCIL on its sale to Neele-Vat Logistics

IMAP is pleased to announce that Neele-Vat Logistics B.V. (“Neele-Vat”), a leading logistics service provider, has acquired OCIL Nederland B.V. (“OCIL”), a high-end freight forwarding, and value-add logistics service provider. The acquisition further strengthens Neele-Vat’s transport and logistics network.

OCIL is a freight forwarding company offering worldwide ocean-, air-, rail- and road- logistics, warehousing and European distribution services. The company offers tailor-made solutions for different freight types, including consumer goods, chemicals, industrial goods, oils, and conditioned goods. OCIL has a strong reputation as a reliable and committed forwarding company with a seasoned management team and over 50 years of combined experience in the transport and logistics market.

Neele-Vat has completed multiple acquisitions over the last few years, and the acquisition of OCIL is in line with its strategy to increase scale and improve its transport and logistics network and service offering.

IMAP Netherlands continues to showcase its experience, expertise, and proven track-record in the transport and logistics market, leveraging its knowledge of the most recent trends and developments in the sector. The IMAP Netherlands team, consisting of Remco Schouten and Wouter Mostert, advised and supported the two managing shareholders of OCIL on the sale to Neele-Vat throughout the entire transaction process.
